"Fatty" Arbuckle Held in Jail for Girl's Murder

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATE FELONY CASE

FORMAL COMPLAINT IS SWORN OUT AND FILED MONDAY.

WITHOUT BAIL Locked in Cell Alone and Treated As Other Prisoners.

San Francisco.—A formal complaint charging murder in the first degree was sworn to before Police Judge Daniel O'Brien Monday against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, a motion picture actress. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Bambina Maude Belmont, a friend of the dead actress. The case is before the grand jury Monday. He and his lawyers refuse to make a statement.

Arbuckle, with his smile gone, spent the night on his couch in a narrow cell and slept soundly. He was roused with the other prisoners at the usual time for the roll call and sent to sleep again but was told that he would have to get up with the other prisoners. At a Private Breakfast.

While he did not take advantage of the prison showers, he dressed with the greatest of care. He ordered his breakfast from the outside and when the waiter came he had a secret conference with him. The waiter brought back a carefully covered tray which Arbuckle attacked with all of the secrecy possible.

He continued to decline to see visitors, other than his attorneys. He is scheduled to appear in police court for formal arraignment Monday.

In the Main-Cell.

Captain of Detectives Matheson ordered that Arbuckle be placed in the regular morning line-up of prisoners which is held for the detectives each morning and that he be photographed for the rogues gallery and his finger prints and Bertillon measurements be taken.

Arbuckle lost his temper when he was told that he was under arrest upon his arrival here late Saturday night, having driven his yellow car, the 409 miles from Los Angeles in 12 hours. A charge of murder was booked against him and he was told he would have to be locked up.

Arbuckle appeared in court to be arraigned on the charge sworn to by Belmont. At the request of the district attorney the case was continued until Friday morning and Arbuckle was taken back to his cell.

It was the second murder complaint against Arbuckle, the first having been made Sunday by the investigating detectives for the purpose of holding him until the formal charge could be filed.

Mrs. Belmont, in signed and sworn statements gave the police many details of the party in Arbuckle's rooms in St. Francis hotel here a week ago Monday at which time Miss Rappe was subjected to an alleged attack by Arbuckle. She died four days later.

Mrs. Belmont said the party and assisted Miss Rappe after the alleged attack. She appeared personally in court to swear to the complaint. Arbuckle was not in court when the complaint was filed.

Arbuckle consented later to see a group of newspapermen, but refused to discuss the Rappe case with them. He was receiving good treatment in the jail. District Attorney Brady through Deputy Milton T. Ure said:

Dead Girl's Fiance Denounces Actor

New York.—Henry Lehman, motion picture director and producer, Sunday discussed the death of Miss Virginia Rappe. She was his niece, Lehman has directed "Fatty" Arbuckle. At present he is directing Owen Moore in a Solzka film.

During the interview Lehman nervously fingered a pair of platinum cuff buttons, given him by the actress. The buttons bore this inscription:

"To Henry, my first and last sacred love, Virginia."

Mrs. Lehman said:

"My prayer is that justice be done. I don't want to go to the coast now. I could not face Arbuckle. I would kill him. If he wants to live, he had better be punished."

Lehman raised his hollow and weary eyes to a large photograph of Miss Rappe. It showed her girlish face silhouetted against a big picture hat hanging from two velvet cords about her neck. He read from the affidavit of Mrs. Jean Jamieson, the nurse:

"She said she blamed Arbuckle for her injuries and wanted him punished for it."

"That is just like Virginia," Lehman said. "She had the most remarkable determination. She would rise from the dead to defend her person from indignity."

I had a talk over the long-distance telephone with Mrs. Sidi Sprickels, former wife of John L. Sprickels Jr. She said that before she knew she was going to die Virginia kept saying:

"Don't tell Henry. Don't tell Henry."

"That means one thing," she had just the battle she made to defend herself. She died the way she lived. She knew what I would do."

Celia Arbuckle Reas.

"Arbuckle is a beast. I directed him for a year and a half. I finally had to tell him if he didn't keep out of the women's dressing rooms, I would see that he was through."

He boasted to me that he had torn the clothing from an unwilling girl and outraged her."

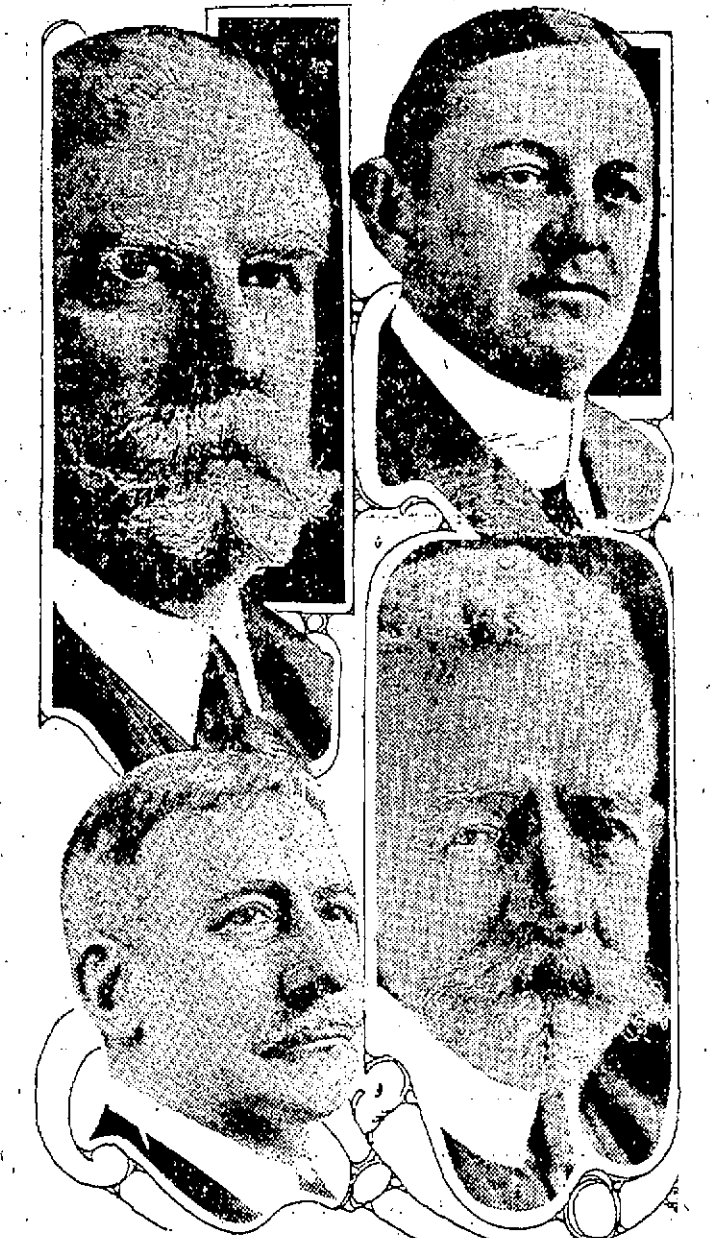

Lehman looked around his room. On the table were such books as "H. G. Wells' 'Outline of History.'" On the walls were Japanese prints.

"That's what comes of taking vulgarities from the gutter and giving them enormous salaries and making idols of them."

Arbuckle came into the picture nine years ago. He was a burly boy in a San Francisco saloon. Not a hair on his head, but a face of those who washes glasses and

GIRL, MISSING 18 HOURS, IS FOUND

Police Aided by Boy Scouts in Search for Effie Boyce, 14.

An extensive search for 14-year-old Effie Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Boyce, 1050 North Bluff street, was brought to an end shortly after 2 p. m. Monday when she was discovered by police on the Patrick Avenue farm, two miles north of Janesville. She had been missing from home since 8 o'clock Sunday night and foul play was feared with a possibility that she had been kidnapped.

Police aid was enlisted by the family Monday morning and the entire district along the river was combed by Boy Scouts who were summoned by Chief Charles Newman. The search lasted nearly three hours with a score of boys aiding.

Following a visit at the Froebelshaus home, North bluff street, the girl was put in the car of a friend shortly before 8 p. m. Sunday and was taken to her home. She said she found the door locked so walked on to the Arner farm where she has visited before. It was hinted by some that she was afraid to enter her home fearing she might be whipped.

Bakersfield, Cal.—Eight thousand oil workers in the fields of San Joaquin valley, Cal., struck at midnight because operators refused to enter into agreements with the union. E. H. Frazier, vice president of the California district council of the oil workers' union, announced. The strike does not involve the workers of the Standard Oil company and the Royal Dutch Shell company. The Standard does not recognize the union and the Shell company recently signed a memorandum of terms with the union.

Blair, Building Inspector, Takes Own Life by Gas

Despondent because physicians seemed unable to cure him of intestinal poisoning, Francis J. Blair, 35, city building inspector, committed suicide at his home, 15 North East street, Monday morning by taking gas.

While left unguarded for a few moments while his wife was out of the room to which he had been confined in bed since Saturday, Mr. Blair locked the door with a set of keys which he had hidden. He cut the tubing of a gas lamp, placed one end in his mouth and drew the gas over his head. He was dead when found in that position by his wife at 11:30.

In Many Years.

Mr. Blair had been suffering with intestinal trouble since his high school days. Doctors were unable to give him any relief. He lived in constant dread of repeated attacks of the illness.

When Coroner Lynn Whaley was called, he pronounced it a case of suicide. The body was taken to his funeral parlors. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

Graduate of Carroll.

Francis J. Blair was born in Janesville July 1, 1886, in the residence of his parents, John and Mary Blair. He was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the University of California. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus. He graduated in 1911 from Carroll college.

On Jan. 8, 1916, he married Emma Audley at Watertown, where she is now living. He also leaves a daughter, 4½ years old, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Blair. Mr. Blair was appointed city building inspector in April 1920, following the passage of the building code.

Blast Shakes Halifax Suburb

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Halifax, N. S.—The town of Dartmouth, across the harbor from Halifax, was shaken by a terrific explosion, early Monday when an oil tank of the Imperial oil company blew up following an outbreak of fire.

The force of the blast was felt throughout this city, shattering windows in many buildings. A series of smaller explosions followed and flames from the burning oil could be seen leaping more than 100 feet into the air.

One man was reported missing and another seriously injured. The property loss will be heavy. In all, five distilling tanks of the Imperial oil company were destroyed. The first started in one of the refining stills.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Will Toulton was in Janesville, Saturday, to levy against 18 sacks of distiller's tankage, valued at $100, which were blown up following an outbreak of fire.

The force of the blast was felt throughout this city, shattering windows in many buildings. A series of smaller explosions followed and flames from the burning oil could be seen leaping more than 100 feet into the air.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. DOUGHERTY

Mother of U. S. District Attorney Asphyxiated by Gas.

Mrs. Mary Dougherty, 84, mother of United States Attorney William M. Dougherty and Mrs. H. M. Keating, Janesville, died at her home, 315 Cornish street, Monday morning, the victim of accidental asphyxiation.

Escaping fumes from a kitchen gas flame overcame the aged woman after she had made preparations for getting coffee.

Mrs. Dougherty was found by Harry Keating, her son, who died at the same time. She fell after making a vain effort to reach the door and escape from the gas fumes.

House Filled by Gas.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Dougherty had been taken on a pleasant boat ride and taken home about 10 o'clock in the evening. As was her daily custom, Mrs. Keating called to the mother over the telephone on Monday morning. There was no response. Telephoning Mrs. O. F. Nowlan, a neighbor, resulted in an investigation.

On going to the home Mr. Keating saw the closed door and found the body. Gaining ingress to the residence, the body was found. The house was filled with the gas.

Gas From Burner.

It is presumed that Mrs. Dougherty was sitting in the morning. Heated the stove, placing the coffee pot to boil over a small burner. Negatives state that frequently it was her habit to rest a few minutes while the food was cooking. Recently the flames were extinguished in the stove resulting in the escape of the gas, which supplied the aged woman.

She had made her way some distance across the room, striving to reach the door when she was overcome by the gas. Although urged frequently not to live alone, she took delight in her own home and steadfastly refused to leave. It was her love in keeping the home in order and in her fondness for the children that she was overcome.

Lived Here 34 Years.

Mrs. Dougherty had lived in Janesville for 34 years. She was born in Danvers, Mass. Mrs. H. M. Keating, who died at the same time, was married to Michael J. Dougherty, who died in Janesville February 3, 1905.

She was a woman of worth, respected by all, whose family had achieved excellent success.

She is survived by five children, William H. Dougherty, Mrs. H. M. Keating, Janesville; Mrs. Fred Mann, Janesville; Mrs. N. Dougherty, St. Paul and A. J. Dougherty, Independence, Iowa. United States Attorney William M. Dougherty was in Milwaukee on Monday morning. He was reached by his law partner, Thomas S. Nolan, and left at once for Janesville.

LIGHTNING BOLT STRIKES ENGINEER DEAF AND DUMB

DAVID MURRAY STRANGE—LY DISABLED IN NIGHT STORM.

SHOE TORN OFF Bolt Glances from Pole in Rear of Shorttiff Ice Cream Plant.

David Murray, 40, residing at 604 South Academy street, employed as night engineer at the Shorttiff Ice Cream plant, was knocked deaf and dumb by a bolt of lightning which struck a telephone post directly in the rear of the plant shortly after midnight Sunday morning.

The electrical flash, which glanced from the transformer box on the pole, tore the sole off the right shoe of Murray—yet the current passing through his body did not leave an apparent burn. The electricity caused injuries to the throat and in some queer manner left the victim unable to talk, to hear or to walk more than a few steps.

Bolt Strikes Pole.

Mr. Murray had just finished oiling the machinery in the rear of the building. He stopped for a moment to watch the storm.

Lightning had a strange fascination for him, according to members of his family. He was fond of watching the streaks of fire and the Baltimore.—The romance of Mrs. Emily Knowles Spiker, which created a sensation two years ago, when, as the mother of Percy Spiker's child she came to America from England to wed her brother, Guy Spiker, has been shattered. Mrs. Spiker, who lived with Guy Spiker in East Baltimore, has disappeared.

The child, adopted by Percy Spiker's wife when she forgave him for infidelity while in service overseas, is at their home.

The English girl left several weeks ago, according to Guy Spiker, leaving a note saying that she no longer cared to live with him.

"She went of her own free will," said Guy Spiker, "and she can stay." Guy Spiker has been out of work for some time and his wife sought employment. She has been employed at a military camp.

Chicago.—Harvey W. Church, aged 23, who confessed to the murder of Bernard J. Daugherty, auto salesman and Carl Ausmus, companion of Daugherty, has implicated no other persons directly in his statement. Cold, calm, unmoved, admitting the most fiendish crime in the past decade of Chicago's criminal history, he was as nonchalant as though he were discussing a picnic. His confession was made after 10 hours of conscious questioning and after he had been taken to the scene of his crime, made to peer into the grave he had dug for Ausmus, then to the bridge where he threw Daugherty's body over the rail.

Slyer Sleeps Soundly.

With two detectives, heavily armed, seated at his bedside, Church slept soundly Sunday night at a downtown hotel. The guards said he fell asleep immediately after going to bed at midnight, sleeping until 9 a. m. Monday.

John Norton, acting chief of detectives, declared Church's behavior was "most unusual." "I have never seen a man re-

Church Tells Story of His Bloody Crime

Chicago.—Harvey W. Church's description of the murder of the two men follows:

"When Daugherty came into the parlor to get the money I drew a revolver. He held up his hands. I pulled the handcuffs and made him hold out his hands one at a time. He looked like a powerful man and I wasn't going to take any chances.

"After I had snapped the handcuffs on I told him the way to the basement and made him go. He was calm enough. I guess he thought I was going to lock him down there and run away with the car.

"When we got down there I got the baseball bat and made him stand still.

"Turn around," I said. He got an idea what was coming then, but I hit him square on the head with the bat and he went down. He tried to strike with his two handcuffed hands, but I beat him again and again. Then I hit him with the hatchet and cut his throat.

"Then I heard someone upstairs and I hurried up. It was this fellow you say is Ausmus. "Where is Daugherty?" he asked. I pulled my revolver and I then did the same thing I did to Daugherty.

"After that I went out and dug a hole under my old Harroun car in the garage. I thought I would put them both in it. Later when I put Ausmus' body in it I found it wasn't big enough. I took Daugherty's, too, so I waited until dark, and after a ride around and a little sleep, I put Daugherty's body in the car and took it to the bridge and threw it in. It made an awful splash, but nobody heard it, and I got away.

"Then I went home and washed up and it was quite late and I got mother and we started for Adams.

"That certainly was a beautiful car. I guess I should have come back and cleaned up the basement right away, instead of riding around.

"It didn't seem so terrible to me. I wanted the car and I thought I'd get caught if Daugherty or the other fellow got away."

Monday Church made a second and third confession. "He's lying," said Coroner Hoffman.

Third Man Held in Jail Under $10,000; Maintains Innocence.

Jefferson.—Bill for Herman Freitag held in connection with the burning of the Max Schlosser home, Farmington, Minn., on Sunday, Sept. 12, 1921, was fixed at $10,000 by Judge George Grimm, when Freitag appeared by his attorney, E. C. Schultze, at Jefferson Saturday.

Freitag is the only one of the three men held who has maintained his innocence. Freitag could not raise the bail and was remanded to the jail. The other two men held repudiated their alleged confessions, according to Attorney Schultze, claiming they were obtained through force and were made by the defendants when they were fearful that the officer would torture them, the hearing will be held before Justice Schmitz, September 15.

The latest move on the part of the state was made Friday when Mrs. Max Schlosser, whose hair was cut off on the night of the alleged attack and the burning of the home, saw and out a warrant charging Freitag with intent to kill. Should Freitag be released on bail on the larceny charge, the warrant filed by Mrs. Schlosser will be served on him and his freedom would be short lived.

World Court Job Declined Flatly by Root

(By Associated Press.) Geneva.—Elihu Root has definitely declined to be considered for election as judge of the international court of justice. In a cablegram to Dr. Stanley O. Hudson, president in the capacity of American observer, Mr. Root declares he will be unable to serve on the court because of his age.

The refusal of Mr. Root is said to increase the chance of either John Bassett Moore or Prof. Roscoe Pound, two other Americans nominated. The election will take place Wednesday.

Mr. Root's cablegram was in reply to a personal message of inquiry. He said he deeply regretted he could not serve as it was too great a responsibility for one to assume at the age of 76.

Some delegates to the assembly, notably Gaston Da Cunha of Brazil, declared Monday they favored the election of Mr. Root despite his cablegram, as an honor.

POLICE HOLD ACTOR FOR GIRL MURDER

(Continued from Page 1.) ment was taken of Mrs. Jean Jamieson, a nurse, who was with Miss Rappe during her last hours. She swore that Miss Rappe, suffering from a heart ailment, had been overcome by a man who had entered her room. "It wouldn't be right for me to pay for all this when it was Roscoe's fault," Miss Rappe moaned to the nurse, according to Mrs. Jamieson's sworn statement.

In a later interview Mrs. Jamieson said that Miss Rappe in her dying moments repeatedly requested her to "get Roscoe"; he is responsible for all this," The nurse said Miss Rappe meant her to summon Arbuckle to her bedside, not to "get" him in the sense of revenge.

Arbuckle's counsel Sunday permitted him to speak for the first time concerning the charges and then only enough to deny them altogether.

Present at Party. The police gave out the following names as those of participants in which was described as a "razzle-dazzle" in Arbuckle's suite last Monday. Roscoe, Arbuckle, Virginia Rappe, Ira G. Portlouis, a New York wardrobe salesman; Miss Alice Blake, a San Francisco case cover; and Mrs. E. N. Delmonico of Los Angeles, friend of Miss Rappe; Lowell Sherman of Los Angeles, a friend of Arbuckle and financially interested in the motion picture business; Frank Fishback of Los Angeles, motion picture director; Al Seimacher, manager of Miss Rappe; Miss Dey Pyron, a San Francisco showgirl; and all of these people have now made affidavits to the police concerning the "party." Most of the statements are consonant except that some disagree on the incidents about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, when Arbuckle and Miss Rappe was alleged to have spent an hour alone together.

Agree Liquor Served. Liquor was served. The affidavits given on this, Miss Rappe picked up a spring of gin and orange juice. One deponent says Scotch was produced and served. There was a photograph in the room discussing current jazz. Arbuckle in a dress gown over his silk pajamas, and with his bare feet shoved into slippers, sat near Miss Rappe, "kidding her" during the afternoon.

The affidavits of Miss Pyron, Miss Blake and Mrs. Delmonico are distinctly unfavorable to Arbuckle. Miss Pyron and Mrs. Delmonico swear that they heard Miss Rappe reading and rushed to her into Arbuckle's room to aid her; only to find the door heavily bolted against their efforts. Finally, they declare, Arbuckle emerged, and they rushed in past him, to find Miss Rappe almost without clothing, her costume torn to shreds and strewn about the room, even her stockings ripped.

"I am dying," I am dying," the young actress was moaning as the two other women picked her up, they assert. They plunged her into a cold bath, thinking to revive her, but this having no beneficial effect.

THREE HURT WHEN CAR HITS CULVERT

Baseball Player Injured in Sunday Crash; Another Auto Battered.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Sharon.—Returning from a ball game at Beloit along driven by Alfred Chene, and said to be going about 35 miles an hour, was wrecked and three men were injured when the car struck a culvert one mile from Clinton near the Milwaukee road tracks, about 4 p. m. Sunday then taken home.

George Stoll, star pitcher for the Sharon baseball team, had his right shoulder dislocated and sprained. James Howell's nose was broken and badly cut and Alfred Chene was badly bruised. August Komps and Floyd Andrews, who also were riding in the car, escaped injury. All are from Sharon.

The car was a total wreck, the fenders, body and radiator being smashed and the engine torn out of the car. The injured men were taken to Clinton, where they were given medical attention and then taken home.

George Bonnell, recovering slowly from injuries received when the mail in a board falling from a silo struck him on the head Tuesday, had his car wrecked Sunday when Robert Roth ran it into a tree, smashing the fenders, radiator and lights. Roth, unacquainted with the mechanism, attempted to drive it to the depot.

removed her to another room, where she was attended by a doctor.

The police, in rounding out the narrative of the "party," took also the statements of the manager of the St. Francis hotel, the attending physicians, the autopsy surgeons, and the city chemist who made certain analyses.

Report by Surgeons. The autopsy surgeons reported officially that Miss Rappe died from the effects of an internal rupture, adding, however, the fact that certain elements of the girl's physical condition might have contributed to the tragedy. In fact, Dr. William Opulins, one of the surgeons, declared the injury to have been due to natural causes, specifically, adding that he had found no external indications of violence.

"There were absolutely no evidences of a criminal assault," Dr. Opulins stated. "Or that the girl had been attacked in any way."

Dr. L. E. Rumwell, physician, who attended Miss Rappe for three days as she lay in the hotel, said he first believed she was suffering from alcoholism. Later he observed symptoms of peritonitis whereupon he summoned two other physicians, Drs. Richard and Read who counseled against an operation.

"There was a large bruise, I think, on the left arm," Dr. Rumwell stated. "I can not say what caused the rupture."

Expose Attempt of Old Leaders to Oust Overton

All is not well with the Chicago Co-operative Milk Marketing company. A statement sent out broadcast to members contains pertinent facts of a bitter contest within the company for control. It develops that the resignation of W. J. Kittle, former general manager and their salesman for the farmers' pool, was forced.

The statements refer to a meeting held in Dundas and allege that the old directors in control, Kittle, Roscoe, Rockwell, who was secretary, and a personal following of each, "formerly bitter, antagonistic and critical of each other, formed a combination to persuade Kittle to block the business reforms that the new executive committee is putting into effect, to bring about the retirement of the new committee, and to unseat the newly elected directors." R. K. Overton, Rock county, Bingham and Buchanan.

In a complex and detailed account, the trouble encountered at the Dundas meeting is published. W. T. Greene, Orlenville, attended the meeting.

Amputate Finger of Man Bitten by Big Rattlesnake

Physicians at Mercy hospital last week amputated the left fore finger of Harry Hoyle, 335 South Cherry street, which was bitten by a rattlesnake in Buda six weeks ago. While re-boxing a number of Texas rattlers in Buda for fair exhibition purposes, Mr. Hoyle was bitten on the finger. Prompt medical attention saved the life of the Janesville man. For several weeks his arm was in danger, being swollen and black from the effects of the fang poison. In the quick treatment for the bite, potassium iodine were put on the finger, and it is believed the burns from the medicine as well as the poison, necessitated the amputation.

Attending physicians expressed confidence on Saturday that Hoyle would recover.

BLAINE CONDEMNS THE KU KLUX KLAN

Says We Had Too Much Night Riding During the War.

Shawano, Wis.—The right of farmers to organized violence was the subject of a general well-tempered and to make a free and untrammeled press," was upheld by Governor John J. Blaine in a special message Monday afternoon.

"The man who denounces you for condemning you, or means abuse upon you because you have organized, is an enemy of the people and a traitor to the constitution that shields him," the governor told his audience.

"Right to organize. You farmers have a right to organize along political lines, you have a right to advocate the adoption of legislation for the benefit of yourselves and your children and you have the right to use every legitimate way to accomplish good," he continued.

Discussing the Ku Klux Klan and other organizations that seek to organize an "invisible government," Governor Blaine declared that "any organization that has for its purpose the inciting of racial or religious prejudices and intolerance is a cancerous growth upon the body of our nation, and destroying the ends of government."

He said that these so-called invisible governments "constitute a danger in night-riding, in dragging men and women from their homes, in committing violence, in attempting to intimidate public officials, and in dishonoring the flag which protects them."

Night Riding in War
"We had too much of this riding of the people during the war," he asserted. "Every act of violence was a poisonous thrust at democracy. Instead of upholding law, such acts defied law. Disease and death breed in the poison of darkness and the farmers that they 'constitute the antidote to invisible government and build and strengthen the visible government. If you disagree with you,' he said, 'it is their right to debate every question, but no one has a right to strike you in the dark or attack you from ambush or in secret."

These principles which I have set forth are not true, then our liberty and happiness are insecure. No home will be immune from invasion, and your liberties and your rights and places of worship will be defiled. Religious freedom will be impossible, government will decay, and all the sacrifices from the 'Manger of Bethlehem will be in vain."

Women to Aid
Governor Blaine declared in his speech that "every great movement starts from small organization of men and women determined to assist in fighting wrongs and in exposing evils. To condemn this right to organize, to advocate, to assemble and to petition is to condemn the greatest movement in the world."

It was through organization that we achieved our right to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and the right to petition that gave us the right to trial by jury; it was organization that made our public school system possible; it was organization that brought about the national conservation and anti-trust laws; it was organization that made possible the republican form of government."

County Leads in Spraying Trees

Rock county is among the counties named by the state as having taken a progressive lead in re-establishing orchards to a productive state. The twin pests of fire blight and scab are becoming more and more destructive in Wisconsin and the efforts of the diseases have cut down orchard production more than half.

This chief weapon used in this and other counties, including Dodge, Green, Walworth and Jefferson where apples are grown, is the spraying of trees with the famous 'Eucalypti' and 'Scab' solutions.

Success has followed the campaign here, which is to be continued next season.

MORE BIRTHS, LESS DEATHS, IN 1921

Births Exceed Deaths by 97 Percent—Only 33 Percent in 1920.

Old man stork is beating death nearly 2 to 1 in the 1921 race in Janesville and is 60 per cent further ahead than he was at this time last year, according to striking figures given out by Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, in charge of the local bureau of vital statistics.

The number of births so far this year is 97 per cent above the number of deaths while at this time in 1920, the difference was only 33 per cent.

Here are the figures for the first eight months of the two years:

Births 1921 1920

Deaths 1921 1920

Decrease in deaths 1921 1920

Decline in pneumonia

The decrease in number of deaths is attributed to the fact that influenza and pneumonia failed to make their usual inroads in the early months of this year, while the death rate in January, February and March of 1920 was particularly heavy owing to these diseases, Dr. Welch explained.

Activities of the health department and the cooperation of citizens in eliminating the fly nuisance this year have decreased dysentery, a disease spread by flies, to a marked degree.

While there were 21 deaths of this disease in Janesville in 1919, the number was cut to 5 in 1920. So far this year there has been but one death here from this cause, Dr. Welch stated.

Although passage by the council of the fly-breeding ordinance would do much to help conditions, Janesville can never be a flyless city until factories in the vicinity take steps to eliminate fly breeding places," said Dr. Welch.

"The encouraging part is that the farmers are doing this although, of course, on a small scale. They are beginning to realize that they can increase their milk production and improve conditions generally on the farm by doing away with the common fly."

In some places farmers are building pits for manure rather than allowing it to stand on the ground in the open—so called breeding places for flies. Putting manure in pits not only does away with this but it increases the value of the manure as fertilizer. Manure exposed to the elements loses a big percentage of nitrogen through decomposition and otherwise decreases in value as a fertilizer."

CHAPTER XX.

THE AUNT

It was dark when we drove into Wellsville. I was glad that for once on the way we had planned to stop in a quiet place, but the car up at the public garage, and walk home to my little house.

The next morning Win would go off to his office as usual, and as usual I would go out in the garden—and when Wellsville knew we were alone, it would and I already established and there could be no more parties, no excitement.

We planned and laughed over it as we drove back, we even laughed at a road house for dinner, so as to be sure it would be into when we got in, and the people along "our street" already in bed.

One thing troubled me. I had forgotten the anniversary of the man with the camera. I had planned to go to the cemetery, but I had to go to the city to buy gasoline, and Win began buying the city papers. Though it seemed only a short time since we had left, the city still there had been opportunity for that picture to get into print and a story written of the elopement and the editors sent out on the fast train. A crash, where we were buying gas.

"Look here!" Win cried laughing, and spread the papers out for me.

I looked at headlines, small print, nothing, but I found a large in my eyes, because my name was in them.

"New York Debuts Elites," one said. "Heiress to Millions Marries Village Youth," another paper put it.

And so it went. One paper had a picture of me—one I had posed for months and months before, when Aunt Harriet still had the idea of making a social debut out of me.

The station, which Win read to me while I took the wheel and drove, were the strangest mixture of fact and fiction. I was an heiress to millions, but I was a village girl.

"You are a girl," one said; "and I had spent my life in boarding schools abroad, another that I was supposed to be studying for the opera."

Aunt Harriet had gotten excited and talked, or else they've been listening to some of the rumors that ran around the village about me.

"You are a girl," one said; "and I had spent my life in boarding schools abroad, another that I was supposed to be studying for the opera."

The Jazz Virtuoso

"Slim" Ellery was a jazz drummer, far beyond the cow-bell and whistling stage. Whistles, bazoons, tambourines, rattles, jingle bells, motor horns, dish pans, Chinese songs: these were sound-producing tools that "Slim" regarded as elements only. The jazz drummer who had gone no further in Wyoming. Suddenly from a clump of bushes nearby a shot rang out, followed in quick succession by three more. The trapper dropped quickly to the ground and rolled behind a log, unhurt. Then he waited for the more of the Indians who had ambushed him.

In a few minutes a war bonnet appeared above a log a short distance away. The trapper was not deceived, for this was an old Indian trick.

However, the trapper had a better trick than this up his sleeve. His rifle was not a single shot, for after a winter of successful trapping he had bought a repeating rifle, one of the first to be carried in the Rocky mountains. He had this weapon now, and he immediately fired, as the Indians were hoping he would.

Three of the Indians dropped in their tracks, and the fourth, with a howl of dismay, turned and fled at top speed, followed by several howls, which the trapper sent after him to encourage the fleeing redskins.

When the surviving warrior arrived in his village he told a marvelous tale of an encounter with a white man who had a "medicine gun" which never stopped shooting and killing.

In this way Dr. W. P. Carver, the trapper who had been ambushed, won the name of "The Evil Spirit of the Plains" for the Indians learned to fear him and his medicine gun as they did no other trapper who invaded their hunting grounds. When the trapping days ended, Dr. Carver became a scout and guide for the United States army, and during the Sioux war of 1876-77 he made the acquaintance of "Buffalo Bill" Cody.

The two scouts became fast friends, and when Buffalo Bill's Wild West show was organized, Carver joined it as a sharpshooter. He could handle a rifle or pistol almost as skillfully as Cody himself, and for many years the two scouts appeared in the arena together.

There wasn't a cafe in town that wasn't bidding for cyclone, big-bank Slim. Wherever he was known to be making the night air crack with unholy noises, there would be found the greatest jam of dancers. It was said that Slim gave satisfaction even when the floor was too crowded for movement. Standing still many a man and woman got as much rhythmic ecstasy as dancing. Slim's music was a pandemonium as they could get out of their skins. The music was a pandemonium of motion punctuated by the crash and clamor of any other jazz racketeer.

Slim was wonderful too, as an animal imitator. With his mouth he imitated the cries of cats, dogs, roosters, hens, donkeys and most of the wild birds whose notes are of jazz quality, like the screeching jay and the quacking crow and the screaming cat-bird. But he was at his best with his specially constructed "traps"—his

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 16. I am dark complexioned, having dark brown eyes, rather reddish brown hair, and my skin is dark and inclined to be sallow.

All the younger children of my neighborhood seem to love me dearly. Boys and girls of my own age seem to avoid me, especially the boys. I wonder if it is my appearance?

I am continually trying to cultivate a more pleasing personality. Could you please give me a few hints to help me out of my predicament? I would especially like to have a few good boy friends.

ANXIOUS.

Personality cannot be acquired overnight. It grows slowly but surely and cannot be changed any more quickly than it was made. Be honest, thoughtful of other people, sympathetic and tolerant and you will grow more and more lovable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged and intend to get married soon. I have no engagement ring. It is quite true that a girl who can make young men talk about things that interest them is very pleasing. Skill is required on the girl's part to keep up her end of the conversation, and simply remaining silent while the man struggles to find topics of conversation does not please him for any length of time.

Do not think I am boy struck, but I would like you opinion in the matter. I like to have the boys just as friendly after a while as at first.

THANK YOU.

You probably let the boys entertain you, and do not exert yourself enough to entertain them. The effort should be mutual. Daland Forced to Three Sets to Win; Start Doubles Play

LOCAL NET MEET BRINGS OUT SOME SENSATIONAL PLAY

Featured by two duce sets in a match in which 36 games were played, the local tennis tournament advanced into the semi-finals of the city tennis tournament being conducted by the Y. M. C. A. courts Sunday by defeating Dea Bolles, 6-3, 4-2, 7-5. He will meet George Bennett in the semi-finals Wednesday in a three out of five set match to decide who will enter the finals.

Daland was forced to many spectacular "sets" off the back fence during the match with Bolles who continually lobbed over his head as he came to the net. Bolles took an early lead in the first set but with the score 5-2 Daland took three games in succession and tied the set which went to Bolles 6-4. Daland started well in the second set, having 4-3 in games. Bolles staged a rally winning three games consecutively but failed to win the set. The final set saw Bolles up to 4-1 when Daland won the fifth game but failed to win the following game which would have given him the match and lost the next two games, the set and match, 7-5.

A meeting of the captains of the Industrial circuit has been called for next Friday night. It will be held in the Gazette office at 8 o'clock.

CALL OF RED GODS ATTRACTS HUNTERS

Prospects of Plenty of Game for Sportsmen This Fall.

The call of the Red Gods soon will be attracting the red blooded citizen to the woods, the streams and the lakes.

Each year the call sounds when the fowl start their southward trip leaving the Wisconsin streams and fish respond best to the lure. It is the time the six foot trail through the pines lead to adventure. Changes in the state game conservation laws have a subsequent effect on hunting and fishing.

Opens on Sept. 16.

Duck shooting which opens on September 16, should be unusually good this season. There were numerous birds in the Southern Wisconsin streams this spring. The keese and ducks swarming by thousands to Koshkonong, Delavan and Geneva lakes. Reports show that they are leaving their northern breeding grounds, nervously flying in flocks, awaiting the cold weather signal to send them southward. Once a cold snap sends them down the shot-gun barrage at the streams will start.

The Red God call is reflected in the sporting goods stores, which have attractive window displays, and obtaining of more than 250 hunting licenses in Rock county. This is at least 200 less than last year at the corresponding time.

Late Habitat Season.
Rabbit season this year has been set for October 25 and with the limit at five a day. This is decidedly later than in previous years, and is one reason why hunters are delaying obtaining their licenses. The cotton tails are reported to be plentiful due to the favorable summer weather.

But the big bug a bee of the hunters in Southern Wisconsin is not so much the depletion of the game. Instead it is the ever increasing posting of signs on wooded sections against trespassing. Most farmers take the sign posting method to protect their farms, their legal right.

Few Hunting Places.
Many of the best hunting sections in Rock county have been established as game reserves which is considered proper and is favored by most of the thinking sportsmen. Between signs and preserves the problem of the sportsman is not so much finding game to hunt but a place to hunt.

The Cavalry Does It

Santa by the cavalry of Janesville, Port Atkinson and Madison will feature a part of the program of the big field day to be held at the fair grounds here on Sunday, Sept. 18. Nine national guard organizations of the Southern part of the state will take part.

This above picture, taken of local troops at Camp Douglas, gives an idea of what is to be expected. Hurling and other feats of horsemanship will be displayed by boys of our own and nearby cities to show the training they receive as members of the guard.

A feature of the program being arranged will be an address by Governor.

What Pola Nezzi, brilliant continental actress, and Ernest Lubitch, foremost of European directors, are destined to retain for some time the prestige which they have gained on the screen in America is indicated by the latest news.

What is described as the most ambitious production in which they have yet figured will be released this fall in the theaters of the United States under the title of "One Arabian Night," according to an announcement recently made by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which has imported the film.
